

Fuel for Thought

Job Vacant - Site Supervisor

Bruce Andersen
Site Superintendent,
QER

After over ten years of service with QER, we'll be sad to see Jim Johnston, our terrific site supervisor retire and leave us, but our loss might be your gain! We advertised the role over the last week but I thought I'd also mention it here.

We are looking for an experienced mobile plant supervisor – preferably with fixed plant operations and/or maintenance experience too. You need to be very practical and very good at what you do and hold a range of relevant mobile equipment tickets. However you'll not only be able to work well with machines, but also with humans – including the ability to maintain a happy and effective team and to maintain good relationships with neighbouring landholders and other stakeholders.

The role reports to me and given that we are a small care and maintenance team, it is a very diverse role needing someone who can be hands-on driving a machine one minute, and at a desk, planning a mining or plant maintenance campaign the next.

Every day brings something different and we love working here.

If you reckon you've got what it takes to be part of the QER team, please send your cv to recruitment@qer.com.au before Sunday 6th of August.

Creating new fuels for Australia

www.qer.com.au

Visitor Centre at 375 Landing Rd, Yarwun.

Open Weekdays 8am to 2pm. | Weekends, public holidays and other times by appointment – 0448 860 656.